

This architectural floor plan depicts the 6th floor of the Good House. The layout is characterized by a large, open central hall that occupies the middle portion of the floor. Surrounding this central space are various rooms and corridors. On the right side, there is a long, narrow room, possibly a library or study, with several smaller rooms branching off. A staircase is located in the upper right corner. On the left side, there are more rooms and a staircase in the lower left corner. The plan includes detailed wall lines, door swings, and furniture placement, such as desks and bookshelves. A label in the upper right corner identifies the floor as 'Good House 6th floor'.
